

the same time, the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) published a letter to the editor from a physician in the same hospital, stating that the patient had been treated for a long time and that the physician was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.

The patient was then referred to a specialist in the same hospital, who also was not sure of the diagnosis.